Payments without the card reader

Clover Virtual Terminal turns your computer into a safe place to take card payments.

Collect customer information by phone, web, post or even in person and use our secure Virtual Terminal to take payments via a web browser. All the power of a traditional POS minus the hardware.

That means no separate machines to keep track of or equipment to upgrade. Then, once payment is complete, customise, print, and email receipts; maintaining the first-rate service you provide from start to finish.

And, you'll be able to accept most major credit card types too. Have a customer who wants to pay using their American Express card? No problem. Same goes for MasterCard, Maestro, Visa, and Diners Club.

Finally, let our real-time reporting capabilities help you claim back your evenings; access transaction management, invoicing options and user management/support for a catalogue of up to 200 items.

Real help from real people

Technical questions? No problem. Our UK team of experts are around Monday to Saturday, 8:00am - 9:00pm to help you out. They'll guide you through how to get the very best from your account.

Ultimate security taken care of Trust is everything. So maintaining the trust you've already built with your customers is vital. We get that.

That's why we've forged a powerful security system into our platform that's designed to safeguard personal information, protecting your customers, your business — and you — from fraud. And, because our Fraud Suite can be set up to meet your business needs, you can arrange your protocols with how you work. Clover takes care of security so you can focus on your business.
